WOODROW WILSON

Nominated for President by Democratic Convention.

Gov. Marshall, of Indiana, Chosen for Vice President, Making Strongest Possible Ticket.

On the 46th ballot Governor Woodrow Wilson was nominated for President of the United States by the Democratic convention at Baltimore on Tuesday afternoon. Twelve hours later Governor Thos. R. Marshall, of Indiana, was selected for Vice President on the third ballot.

The final vote for president stood 990 for Wilson and 84 for Clark. Previous to taking this ballot, Clark's manager had released the obligation on all Clark delegates and Kentucky voted for Wilson.

The convention was in session a week and was made very turbulent by the fights precipitated by Wm. J. Bryan.

The nominations are being enthusiastically received all over the country and the ticket is pronounced a winner.

Gov. Wilson is a brilliant man, honest and capable. As Governor of New Jersey he has put into effect all the reforms promised in his platform, and he accomplished this with one branch of the Legislature having a Republican majority.

Gov. Marshall is the favorite son of Indiana. He is a safe, aggressive and able statesman. His name adds strength to the ticket.

Wilson is 56 years old, a native of Virginia, but the greater part of his life has been spent in New Jersey as president of Princeton College.

Marshall is 58 years old, a native of Indiana. He is a very successful lawyer, and his record as Governor is one of which he may well be proud.

PASTOR IS COMPLIMENTED.

Under this caption a recent Memphis, Tenn., newspaper has this to say of a former Louisian:

Rev. C. H. Williamson, Ph. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will leave tonight for New York City and from there will sail on July 4 on the steamship Cincinnati for Europe, to be gone all summer. The trip is extended Dr. Williamson by his friends in Memphis, and includes the appreciation of members and nonmembers of his church.

Dr. Williamson will land at Cherbourg, France, going to Paris for a ten days' stay. From there he will go to Rome, visiting Geneva and other Switzerland cities enroute. His route from Rome will take him northward to Florence, Venice, the country of the Italian lakes, in Switzerland, Lucerne, to Heidelberg down the river Rhine to Cologne, through Belgium and Holland. From the land of the dykes he will cross to England, making a long tour of the rural district and including Scotland. He will leave Southampton about Sept. 4 on his return to Memphis.

The trip was projected by Dr. Williamson's friends last year, but he refused to accept as he held that church affairs demanded his presence here. The tribute is one which shows the high regard in which Dr. Williamson is held here and the best wishes of hundreds will accompany him.

WE DID CELEBRATE.

The NEWS announced last week that there would not be any celebration of the 4th of July. A day or so afterwards a celebration was agreed upon, and the people came out in large numbers, considering the circumstances. As the NEWS went to press the band was playing, and the orderly crowd seemed to be having a good time.

Miss Harriet Thornbury, of Catlettsburg, is the guest of Miss Uta Crites.

In Honor of Miss Eva Wellman.

Mrs. Lon Wellman entertained last night at her handsome new home in Hubbard's Addition in honor of Miss Eva Wellman, of Louisa, who is spending a few days the guest of Mrs. Wellman here. Music games and charades made the evening a most enjoyable one. Delicious refreshments were served. There were a large number of the young society people in attendance as well as several of the older ones. Mr. and Mrs. Wellman have a beautiful and convenient modern home, and have just recently gone to house-keeping in same.—Pikeville cor. Ashland Independent.

Here From New York.

The Rev. Frederick F. Shannon and son are visiting Louisa relatives, having arrived here on Monday morning last. Her Louisa friends will not have the pleasure of seeing Mrs. Shannon this season as she will visit her parents in York, Pa. It will be gratifying to Louisians to know that Mr. Shannon will preach while here, his first sermon being delivered in the M. E. Church South next Sunday morning. His fame as a preacher is now nation wide and large crowds hear him wherever he goes.

S. S. CONVENTION.

Next Wednesday and Thursday the County Meeting at Louisa.

It should require but little to be said in order to arouse and maintain interest in the fact that the Lawrence County Sunday School Convention will be held in Louisa next week, Wednesday and Thursday, July 19th and 21st, are the days, and the new and beautiful Baptist church is the place where the convention will be held, and our people are to be the hosts for the multitude. Louisa hospitality is proverbial, and next week will be another time when there will be no lack of attention to those who are our guests.

More and more as time passes the Sunday school is being recognized as one of the greatest of the many forces which are working for God and the uplift of humanity. While known as an auxiliary of the church it is also known that the Sunday school reaches into avenues through which the church does not or cannot go, and its powerful influence is daily increasing and felt more and more. And one of the mighty arms of the Sunday school is the convention. The schools of the district, the county, the State and the nation have their district organizations, their separate work, yet the work is in fact the same, and is for the good of humanity. Send your delegates and come yourselves, and make next week's gathering a great one in the history of county conventions.

A PROCLAMATION.

The beated term is now upon us, with its attendant possibilities for disease, and it is incumbent upon the people to use every effort to mitigate its ill and to prevent as far as we can the maladies usually prevalent at this season. To this end it is essential to our physical well being as a community that our streets, alleys and premises be thoroughly cleaned. This is the first step towards the prevention of disease. With back yards, vacant lots and public highways reeking with dirt of every imaginable character, wet by rains and fermented by heat, sickness is the inevitable result. You as citizens are, therefore, urged to thoroughly clean and disinfect your premises, and to clean one-half of the street in front of you, and in your labors to clean the streets you will receive the aid of the city. July 12th and 13th have been designated as Clean Up Days, and it is urged that all our people enter heartily into the work of making and keeping a clean Louisa.

JOHN G. BURNS, Mayor.

Miss Hannah O'Brien will teach the public school at Lockwood, Boyd county, this year.

Ashland Gas Well A Gusher.

The big gas well down near Bellefonte which was recently brought in by the Means, Russell Iron Co., is proving to be a gusher. This well was brought in at a depth of 1725 feet and this with the steady pressure that the well has shown for the past four weeks, would indicate that it is going to be a good well. Before the cap was put on, the men experimented with it by placing a blacksmith's anvil over the opening in the pipe, and it was tossed off as if it was a feather. A gentleman from Lexington, who is well versed in oil and gas matters, viewed this well yesterday, and after seeing what it showed in the way of pressure, said that in his opinion, this one well would produce enough gas to supply the city of Ashland. This would indicate that the Means, Russell Iron Co., have struck something that will prove a bonanza to them.

Manager Wheatley, of the Bellefonte Brick Yards, has just completed piping gas from this well to the numerous brick kilns about the yard, and they now have twenty fires going from this well. It is said that the Bellefonte company by using all the gas they need in their brick yard will not be able to use one-fifth of the supply they have.—Ashland Independent.

Accident to Brakeman Osborne.

While C. and O. Brakeman Geo. Osborne was running to throw a switch at Potter Wednesday morning his foot struck a "fish plate," which caused him to fall. He fell with such force that the palm of his left hand was torn open, making a very painful wound. He came to Louisa where the company surgeon, Dr. Wroten, attended to the injury.

Business Education.

C. L. Miller will have charge of the commercial department of Kentucky Normal College, beginning with the next term, and it will be made larger and better than ever before. A lot of printed matter setting forth the plans of this department has just been issued. You can get complete training in shorthand and typewriting, bookkeeping, telegraphy, commercial law, etc.

TWO PAINFUL ACCIDENTS.

Man Loses Two Fingers and a Boy Shoots Himself.

Misfortune fell upon Jone Thompson, of this city, last Saturday afternoon when an accident occurred which cost him the loss of two fingers of his right hand. Mr. Thompson is a carpenter and was working in the mill of the Snyder Hardware Co., just below town when he received the injury which will disable him for a long time. In an attempt to throw a belt upon a pulley, in some way hardly explainable his hand came in contact with a running saw, and in a twinkling the injury was inflicted. Mr. Thompson is an industrious, hard working man and his enforced idleness means serious loss to him. Dr. D. Burgess rendered the necessary surgical aid.

A lad, the son of a man named Pack, who lives near the Taber creek Baptist church, some two or three miles below Ft. Gay, was very badly hurt a few days ago by the accidental discharge of a shot gun. Holding the weapon by the muzzle he was shoving it under a bed, when it was discharged, inflicting very serious injuries. The fleshy part of the boy's right hand, between the little finger and the wrist, was torn away, and a large portion of the right leg, between the knee and the ankle was blown off, making a horrible looking wound. The left leg also received part of the load but is not badly hurt. Dr. L. H. York went down and attended to the lad's injuries. Subsequently young Pack was removed to Riverview hospital where he is resting comfortably. The boy is about 12 years old.

CLEAN UP.

Next Friday and Saturday the Appointed Time.

Louisa Citizens to Take Concerted Action in Cleaning up Streets, Alleys and Private Premises.

On last Tuesday evening the City Council received a committee of women from the Nora S. Kennison Literary Club, of this city. The delegation comprised the following members: Mrs. Kennison, J. W. Wroten, Augustus Snyder, R. L. Vinson, Mary Horton, J. W. Crites, A. L. Burton, Guy Atkinson, F. T. D. Wallace, Sr., Hannah Lackey and H. C. Sullivan. The occasion was the regular monthly meeting of the council and when the presence of the ladies was announced they were accorded the right of way. Mrs. Lackey, as "spokesman" for the committee, presented, in well-chosen phrase, the cause of the Club which the committee represented, and, and was for a cleaner consequently, better, Louisa, and this vital subject could not have had a clearer or more eloquent exposition. Mrs. Lackey was followed by Mrs. Kennison, the President of the Club, who told, in effective words, what she had done for her own premises in the way of cleanliness and sanitation. Surely, what she has done and what she has been doing for years should be an object lesson to all housekeepers.

Mrs. Guy Atkinson was not backward in her advocacy of the city clean as well as the city beautiful. The dominant note in the splendid talks of these ladies rang out clear and strong. It was an appeal to our people to make Louisa in its yards its streets, its alleys and its vacant lots clean and sanitary, and the note was persuasive, not compelling. The committee suggested that next Friday and Saturday be noted as "Clean Up" days, and that council take official cognizance of the fact and assist to the extent of hauling away the rubbish as it should be piled up in front of the various lots and premises.

This the council cheerfully agreed to do, and even further. It is known that the city marshal has about twenty-five unexecuted capias for fines, and he was ordered by the council to serve these papers, and in the event of the defendants failing to pay to put them to work on the streets. Mr. Crites, of the M. E. Church South, and Dr. Hanford, of the M. E. Church, spoke in favor of the movement which had been so auspiciously inaugurated, and of the labors of the Big Sandy News along the lines of good morals, good streets and good citizenship. Mr. Summers, of the Christian Church, and Mr. Cree, of the Baptist Church, are out of town, otherwise they would have been present and added their favoring words to what the ladies and their brethren had said.

The Health Officer of Louisa Dr. A. W. Bromley was present and made a few appropriate remarks concerning his duties and the duty of the people in the matter of cleaning up the town. He was heartily in favor of the good work and would do all he could to help the movement along.

Upon the retirement of the committee the council resumed its "deliberations," concerning which the least said the better.

HOME ON FURLOUGH.

Major W. O. Johnson arrived here on Wednesday for a visit to his mother, Mrs. Zara Johnson. He has been ordered to the Philippines for another tour of duty and will sail for that post September 5. The Major is looking well, and feels good over the loss of several pounds of superfluous flesh.

PAROLE DAY JULY 17th.

The Kentucky Prison Commission has appointed July 17th for hearing applications for parole of State convicts.

The Sewerage Proposition.

It is understood that the City Council proposes to accept bids for the building of sewerage and curbing without any arrangement for the money to carry on this work with. It has been said that the parties who bid on the work will be expected to take the city's bonds for same. The council seems to have information that there are such contractors. This would practically give such bidders a monopoly of the work and the prices would be exorbitant. It certainly would be better for the council to first find out whether they have a right to issue bonds without a vote of the citizens, and then if they have the right, find out if they can sell the bonds and at what price. It seems they are going at it blindly, piling up a lot of expense without knowing what the results will be.

CITIZEN.

Last of the Season.

This being the "close" season for game of all sorts the Finch Club has suspended its meetings until the first Thursday in October. The last meeting was held Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Robert Burchett, of Madison street, hostess.

SCHOOL ELECTIONS.

Information for Those Interested in School Trustee.

In answer to numerous inquiries and requests for nominating petitions by persons interested in the election of school trustees, I desire to call attention to some facts relating to school elections.

1. Elections will be held in all the sub-districts in the county on the 1st Saturday in August from 1 to 5 o'clock p. m.

2. Elections will be Viva Voce, no ballots, ballot boxes or petitions will be used, but the candidates name will be called by the clerk and the vote will be taken by open ballot, as it was prior to 1908.

3. All women over 21 years of age are allowed to vote, also to hold the office of trustee providing they possess sufficient educational qualifications.

4. All candidates for trustee must file a certificate signed by 5 reputable citizens that he or she is able to read and write. This should be filed with the clerk, of the election and sent to the County Supt. with the candidate's certificate of election.

5. One half the trustees elected will hold 1 year, and half for 2 years to be determined by lot at the organization of the division Boards after the election.

6. The officers of the election are two Judges and a Clerk who must certify the returns of the election to the county Supt. within 5 days of the election.

7. The trustee elect need not be qualified until the Division Boards are organized and if he is not present at this meeting or sends a written lawful excuse he will forfeit his office.

8. The candidate need not file with the county Supt. any previous notice of his candidacy.

Not even the election of a President is so important to the people of a district as these elections and every good citizen who is interested in the welfare of his children and his county should see to it that the very best men are elected to fill these offices, for no efficient system of schools will ever be had until more interest is manifested in putting capable men in office whose only object is the welfare of the schools.

I have not as yet recd. any reports from the different Division Boards relative to the election of teachers. The results of these elections, with all the contracts should be mailed to me immediately as no schedule of salaries can be made until they are recd.

Please remember that the officers for the election of school trustees are to be chosen on the day of the election and by the voters present when the polls are opened. JAY O'DANIEL, Supt.

A Statement to the People of Louisa.

An ordinance has been enacted by the Council of the City of Louisa directing the improvement of parts of Franklin, Madison, Main, Perry, Water, Main Cross, and Lady Washington Streets by the construction of a street drainage or sewer system and of a concrete curb and gutter.

At the regular meeting of the City Council held on July 2nd, 1912, attack has been made upon the wisdom of the council in taking this action, and suggestion has been made that such action has been taken without the knowledge or approval of the citizens of Louisa.

It has not been the purpose of the Council to proceed with undue haste in this matter, but our intended action has been known for some months and no serious objection has been made. However, owing to the suggestion of unwarranted action contrary to public sentiment, we desire now that all interested shall confer with the members of the Council in order that a full understanding may be had of what is proposed to be done so that the sentiment of the public may be properly expressed in our action.

The purpose of this work is to drain the water from the streets into a concrete curb and gutter from which it will pass at intervals into the drainage sewer, thereby affording the streets a reasonable chance to keep dry, which will be increased by proper grading and crowning in the middle.

We believe and are advised that such improvement will obviate the necessity for streets paved with brick, which we have felt too expensive for Louisa to incur at this time.

The cost of this improvement estimated at less than $2.00 per foot front is to be borne one-half by the property owners on each side of the streets improved, except street intersections which are to be paid for by the City out of the general funds. Payment may be made in full at the completion of the work or 10 per cent. each year for 10 years.

Any councilman will furnish any information that may be desired. Recognizing that we are servants, not masters of the people by favor of whose franchise we are entrusted with public office, we ask that you confer with us.

NEW TOWN UP SANDY.

Location at Junction of New Railroads Above Pikeville.

A land deal was consummated Thursday which involves one of the most valuable town sites in the Big Sandy Valley, and one which by reasons of its strategic location in the new coal field will have an unusually bright future. Interested in the deal were a number of local capitalists as well as several influential men from Eastern cities. The price paid for the town site, which contains thirty-two acres, all of which is available as building there was misgivings over officials sites, was not made public, but it is said to have been a large sum. The new town will be located on the C. & O. several miles south of Pikeville, and at the proposed junction of the Clinchfield, Carolina & Eastern and the Baltimore & Ohio, each of which has shown active indications of placing rails through the district within the next two years. The connecting link between the Clinchfield and the C. & O. is now being constructed as rapidly as men and material can do the work. The new town will be in the midst of the great Eastern Kentucky coal field and in the very center of the railway extension activities which will be in evidence in that part of the country during the next ten years.—Ashland Independent.

THE WHEAT HARVEST.

The Lawrence county, wheat harvest is said to be one of the best ever known in this section. It is said that the average State crop will be short largely due to late sowing last fall.

The Common Drinking Cup.

There is a disposition throughout the State to obey the law passed by the Legislature against the use of the common drinking cup, and it is better for the health of our people that this is so. The observance of the law will certainly assist in preventing the spread of diseases, some of them of the most loathsome character, men afflicted with communicable disease of the very worst sort have been seen to use the public cups at the pumps in this city, with great probability that such disease has been spread in this manner. The State Board of Health, with no possible selfish aim or intent, has condemned the public drinking cup, and other States and cities are strongly condemning and absolutely prohibiting its use.

It was expected that the law would provoke some opposition, but this opposition came from the unthinking and will die out. It was passed for the common good, to protect our people from disease, and its wholesome provisions should be enforced and obeyed.

H. H. MOORE.

Big Sandy Youth Making a Success at Winchester.

The following letter and clipping were sent us by Steve K. Vaught, editor of the Winchester, Ky., Democrat:

Brother Conley:—
The enclosed clipping contains a speech delivered by H. H. Moore, a young member of the Winchester Bar, but formerly a Louisa boy. The address has made such a "hit" here and especially so when the age of the young man is considered that I take the liberty of sending it to you, feeling confident that you would reciprocate the kindness if the occasion was offered. Young Moore is making a brilliant success here and we congratulate your town upon producing such a competent youngster. We all have very high hopes for him and feel quite sure he'll not disappoint us. He has written some splendid articles for my paper.

Very sincerely yours,
Steve K. Vaught, Editor.
Mr. H. H. Moore, the youngest member of the local bar, delivered at the Methodist church Wednesday evening an eloquent address which was highly praised by all who heard it, both on account of its composition and delivery. The subject was "The Lawyer and the Golden Rule."

The Speech.
I consider myself fortunate in having this opportunity of speaking to you and I feel profoundly grateful for the honor but I would rather an older lawyer had been chosen because he could have dealt with this subject, "The Lawyer and the Golden Rule," from the experiences of actual practice, while I, a mere fledgling in the great legal field, must necessarily speak of the untried theories of a youthful imagination.

In my opinion there is no more noble profession than the law with the possible exception of the ministry. The blind goddess of justice, the emblem of our profession stands with perfectly balanced scales ever ready to mete out justice, equal and exact, to all alike, and if this end is not attained it is because her purposes are enmeshed in the toils of selfishness or shattered by the parasites of corruption.

In no walks of life could the golden rule more fittingly be used in the professional motto because in no business is there such a chance to take advantage of your fellowman and trample under foot the divine precepts of man's Creator.

Honesty and truth, the twin virtues without which character would be a barren waste, pay no larger dividend in any calling and kindness and love, the commendable traits of every Christian, crown the lives of no men more completely than members of the law.

It is a source of regret to the followers of Blackstone and Kent for the laymen to judge the legal profession from some of its members and measure its standard by their efficiency, or rather their inefficiency.

You must view the profession as a whole. You must stand where you can see a majority of its members engaged in life's engrossing battles. You must study its history which began before the days of Justinian and the lawgivers of Rome and has continued through the cycle's sweep of years until the dawn of the twentieth century.

By doing this you will convince yourself that the legal profession is one of renown and that it has contributed to the world its quota of worthy characters whose achievements we all delight to honor.

While it is true that the ministry may well boast of her Wesleys, her Calvins, her Whitfields and Campbells, and science mentions with acclaim her Newtons and Spencers, her Marconis and Edisons, the law feels a filial pride in her Lincolns and Kents, her Cokes and Marshalls, her Websters and Clays, men who have crossed the raging seas of life and have anchored safe on honor's shore, tributes to their profession and compliments to their Creator.

While it is true that there are members of our profession who have but little regard for truth and honor and in the furtherance of their contemptible schemes besmirch the profession to which they belong it might also be mentioned as a truth that even within the sacred provinces of the ministry such vermin may be found who screen hypocrisy behind their sacerdotal robes thus bringing into disrepute the calling of their Maker.

The slyster and the pettifogger are as much out of place in the temple of justice as the hypocrite and infidel in the house of God.

It is true that the lawyer may not win the greatest wealth from the honest pursuit of his profession yet, he, as other God-fearing men, is pleased to know that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches and loving favor rather than silver and gold."

The golden rule is commanding "that you do unto others that which you would have others do unto you," is a direct, positive and unequivocal command while the converse statement is the maxim of the law "do not unto others that which you would not have others do unto you."

Some men doubt the practicability of the golden rule in the law; I think it practicable. Some people do our profession wrong by thinking its basic principles inconsistent with the golden rule; I deny the inconsistency and am unable to see the reasons for their thoughts. Some unthoughtfully cast aspersions upon our members by saying a majority of them are of doubtful honesty while in the light of history and statistical facts a smaller percentage of lawyers have proven traitors to principle than any other class.

Occasions frequently arise that place lawyers in most tempting positions. Oftentimes they have the opportunity to stray from the paths of uprightness and pluck from the fields of dishonesty the fruit of ill-gotten gains. Many times the chance is offered them to take advantage of an unwary opponent and reap a rich harvest at his expense. And sometimes through a technicality they have the power to knock to pieces the structure of an opposing counsel and build a victory upon its ruin.

Upon such occasions as these there could not be found in my opinion a more fitting guide than the divine edict of the golden rule "do unto others that which you would have others do unto you."

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE AT EVENING TIDE.

Our Schools.

While this paper has always been a warm friend to the schools of our town it intends to take a deeper interest in them during the ensuing year. We believe it is the duty of every citizen to take a live interest in our schools. During the years that are past, scores of our young people have stepped out of school's life into school. Would that we could in this issue of our paper place before its readers the familiar face of each and every one, but such is among the impossibilities, for Grim Death, on his white horse, has thinned the ranks and as "Death loves a shining mark," many of the most promising fell before reaching the noon-day of life, but we can assist in keeping green their memories. Our school home! What words fall upon the ear with so much music in their cadence as those which recall the scenes of school days now numbered among the memories of the past. Intervening years have not dimmed the vivid colorings with which memory has adorned those joyous days.

While we all graduate in much the same manner, how different has the wheel of fortune turned. Some with plaintive tongues have had to walk in lowly vales of life's weary way, others in loftier hymns have sung of nothing but joy, as they have trodden the mountain top; but no matter how near the summit or base of the mountain of fame you will meet with a graduate from our schools, you meet with one who is a credit to society. "As the twig is bent, so is the tree 'inclined,'" and habits were formed under the moulding power of a moral atmosphere which seems to permeate the schools of our little city, which stay by one through life. Our school life is indeed the golden link that binds youth to age, and he is still but a child, however time may have furrowed his cheek or silvered his brow who can yet recall, with a softening heart, the happy school days passed in this city.

Fourth of July.

Let every reader of this column plan for a jolly time on the Fourth.

We live too fast in America. We have not enough holidays—not enough resting places—not enough intermission in our work-day world. It were better if oftener to have laid aside its tools—traffic and trade stopped, now and then, and to consider its aim and end.

There must be an oasis in every desert. The black Sierras has its sunlit valleys. There are smiling nooks, even among the Cordilleras. Halting places they are, great rocks and their shadows, even in the dreariest land. He who builds up a shelter for the storm-beaten and foot-weary pilgrim over the road traced by the "great caravan" is a benefactor to his race and his memories should be cherished while holidays are observed.

Holiday time! Who would care to know why and whence came the custom. Enough to know that care perforce must smooth his wrinkled front, and fun and frolic for the time rule the hour. It were folly not to enjoy the glimpses of sunshine that come through the cloud rifts, short lived and evanescent though they be. They prove that there is brightness beyond—that no clouds are so dense but stray beams may penetrate them.

Rosy faces, wreathed and joyous, welcome the festive season. With its merriments, its reminders, its regrets, and its hopes, comes the happy holiday. It is well that the ancient builders set up mile posts on the highway of time, else it were a dull and tiresome road.

Don'ts For Wives.

The leader of Rockefeller's church at Cleveland, Ohio, recently took the above heading for his text, and he asked his hearers to put the following don'ts up in their wives' mirrors:

Don't marry a man for a living, but for love. Manhood without money is better than money without manhood.

Don't overdress nor underdress; common sense is sometimes better than style.

A wife with a hobble skirt and a husband with patched trousers make a poor pair. A woman can throw more out of a window with a spoon than a man can put into the cellar with a shovel.

How Not to Run a House.

Don't think that the way to run a house is to run away from it. It is wrong to go around lecturing other women on how to bring up children, while you are neglecting your own.

Don't tell your troubles to your neighbors. They have enough of their own. Fight it out with yourself if it takes all summer.

Don't nag. The saloonkeeper is always glad to welcome your husband with a smile.

Don't try to get more out of a looking glass than you put into it. Nature's sunshine is better for a woman's beauty than man's powders and paints.

Don't forget to tell the truth, especially to the conductor about the age of your child; honesty is worth more to you and them than a nickel. A boy who is 8 years old at home and 6 on the cars will soon learn other things that are not so.

Don't forget that home is a woman's kingdom, where she reigns as queen. To be a mother of a Lincoln, a Garfield, or a McKinley, is to be the mother of a prince.

Will our county officials who have the authority to build and repair roads please take notice that we demand that the roads be put in repairs before the fall rains and in time for the farmers to market their crops. Will the answer be to this "to put them good repair." If the sturdy farmer takes his team and builds and repairs roads is he the only beneficiary? You may start any day out on the road and you'll see ten teams from town where you'll see one farmer on the road to town. It is not right that the farmer should be compelled to build roads for all. It should be done by taxation and every one hear his just portion. May the time speedily come when we may have a system of good roads in Lawrence.

NOBODY'S DARLING.

In Memory.

The death angel visited the home of John and Ida Poe and took from them their darling son Dewey. His age was thirteen years. He had always been very delicate from a baby. His disease was dropsy of the heart. He will be greatly missed in his home and by his many friends. To know little Dewey was to love him. Before he died he would call the children to him and tell them he wanted to give his play things to them before he went away. His death occurred on Sunday morning. His suffering was long and painful, but borne with great patience. Our loss is heaven's gain. Weep not, dear father and mother, your darling boy is safe with Jesus to suffer no more. Prepare to meet him. He beckons you to come. He leaves father, mother five sisters and two brothers to mourn his loss. He was laid to rest in the home graveyard. All is dark within our dwelling. 'Lonely is our lot today for the one we loved so dearly has forever passed away.

A COUSIN.

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing dishes, sweeping and doing housework all day, and crawling into bed dead tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed, you should become both healthy and beautiful. For sale by Louisa Drug Co.

Given Away—Ladies' and Children's Hats at Pierce's.

The Fountain Head of Life Is The Stomach

A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgement.

This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medical roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven remedy of known composition. Ask your neighbors. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of
W. J. FIELDS, of Carter County, for Representative in Congress from the Ninth district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Baltimore convention was a thriller from start to finish.

Hurrah for Woodrow Wilson! We are all original Wilson men now.

The militia service pension bill, drafted by Representatives Langley and Russell, was favorably reported.

Kentucky got a splendid advertisement for sobriety at the Baltimore Convention, as not a drop of red liquor could be had at the State headquarters.

Davies county captured the prize offered by the Kentucky Educational Association for the numerically largest delegation to the Louisville Convention.

On several ballots Champ Clark received a majority of the votes of the convention at Baltimore, but he could not reach the necessary two-thirds over Bryan's opposition.

J. W. Fox, father of John Fox, Jr., the novelist, died at the latter's home at Big Stone Gap, Va. The body was brought to Paris, Ky., for interment, Mr. Fox having taught school there many years ago.

When "the tumult and the shouting dies" it will be evident to the most casual on-looker that the next President will be a "straight" nominee, either a Democrat or a Republican. There is not the slightest chance for a Third Party.

The first movement for the organization of the Progressive party in Kentucky outside of Louisville, was taken Monday afternoon at Winchester. The club starts out with a membership of 500 under the leadership of Col. R. R. Perry and Mr. Lucien Beckner.

Thomas R. Marshall will strengthen the Democratic ticket at home and abroad. He will make the country a good Vice President. If the need should arise he will make the country a good President. His nomination adds the State of Indiana to that of New Jersey and the Solid South in the Democratic column. Kentucky, which knows him well, will increase her Democratic majority because of him.

The drawings for positions on the official ballots for the August primary were held in the office of Secretary of State Crecelius on Friday last.

In the races for Congress the drawing resulted:

Ninth District—Democrats, Congressman W. J. Fields; no opposition. Republicans, E. S. Hitchins, first; Harry Bailey, second.

Tenth District—Democrat, E. D. Stephenson; no opposition. Republican, Congressman John W. Langley; no opposition.

For Judge of the Court of Appeals in the Seventh District the drawing resulted:

Democrats, J. Smith Hays, first; C. C. Turner, second. Republicans, T. B. Blakey, first; J. K. Kirk, second.

JOHN C. C. MAYO.

Looms up Big in Democratic Affairs in Kentucky as Does His Partner, Clarence Watson, in West Virginia.

Frank B. Gessner, Washington correspondent to the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, in a batch of personal gossip about Democrats at Baltimore, says of Mr. Mayo of Kentucky:

The New Kentuckian.

Kentucky has a new man on the Democratic National Committee this year, John C. Calhoun Mayo of Paintsville, railroad builder, developer of mines and political deviltry to the limit. John C. has long been a popular visitor, almost a resident in Cincinnati, and he is no less well known and popular throughout West Virginia and in the exclusive corridors of the Waldorf in New York.

In recent years Mayo has not only grown big in Kentucky Democratic affairs, but has made both a business and political alliance with Senator Clarence Watson of West Virginia, the millionaire who has done so much development in the state, both of coal properties and the Democratic organization.

As Watson is the one Democrat most feared; and also respected by the somewhat shattered Republican organization in his state, so Mayo has become, not exactly feared, but unceasingly respected by Democrats in Kentucky.—Lexington Leader.

Doubtful Over Hatfield As Risk.

(Morgantown, W. Va., Telegram to the New York World.)

Dr. H. D. Hatfield, Republican nominee for Governor of West Virginia, was the cause of a sensation when his application for $50,000 life insurance reached the New York office of a large company a few weeks ago.

The application was classified in the insurance office as "Hatfield, of West Virginia." Immediately there were misgivings over granting Dr. Hatfield a policy when the officials of the insurance company recalled the Hatfield-McCoy feud. They could not understand either how a feudist could afford such a large policy, Dr. Hatfield is a cousin of the famous "Devil Anse" of Hatfield-McCoy annals.

A special representative of the New York company was sent to this State, and for several days he followed Dr. Hatfield without making any inquiries. Then the investigator began to ask questions, and without waiting for an interview with Dr. Hatfield, he wired headquarters: "Get him for all you can."

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

An Ad. in the News Brings Results.

APPRECIATED IN CHICAGO.

Mrs. Melva Gartin Funk, sister of Mr. John Gartin, of this city, sends this to the NEWS:

Mr. M. F. Conley,

Editor Big Sandy News:—

Congratulations on the splendid victory won by you before the Kentucky Press Association. Of course we knew it all the time. We are glad the others have found it out.

As is known to many of the readers of this paper, Mrs. Gartin is president of what is known as the Children's Day Association of Chicago, an organization for the betterment of the moral and physical condition of the children of that big city. Four years ago, a small body of the best people in Chicago, Mrs. Funk being one of them, organized to redeem the name of Charity from what might have been more properly termed, commercialized giving. Her predecessors in office seemed to fight the people as well as the principles. She asked their co-operation, talked to them not about them. Today, after a little more than two years, of perhaps the most careful fight ever fought by an organization, Mrs. Funk has the satisfaction of seeing the methods of both state and public charities completely revolutionized. The state is now paying the money to the mother, formerly paid to institutions. The other large bodies as have adopted her methods. The Society acts with them as a consultancy committee. The mayor of Chicago H. M. Carter H. Harrison showed his appreciation of the work in honoring Mrs. Funk with the appointment as delegate to represent Chicago at the recent conference of charities and correction (National) held in Cleveland, O., June 12, 19th.

NO HOPE FOR TAFT.

The following is from the Harrodsburg Leader, a Republican newspaper belonging to F. P. James, formerly Auditor of Kentucky:

"A leading, experienced and careful Republican politician of Mercer county has for some weeks been engaged in getting the sentiment of the voters and has made a careful estimate of the vote that Taft and Sherman will receive in this county at the coming November election. The usually normal Republican vote is between 14,000 and 15,000. This gentleman estimates that the extreme limit of the Taft and Sherman vote will be 400, while a fair estimate is 350. At this rate of loss Kentucky will go at least 150,000 the other way. It is indeed a most gloomy outlook for the Chicago ticket in this section.

If we do not mistake the signs of the times Taft and Sherman will be the worst defeated candidates in November who ever aspired to these exalted places.

G. E. Pigg, Cross St., Louisa, Ky., says: "I am glad to confirm the testimonial I gave in 1908 recommending Doan's Kidney Pills for they gave me entire relief from kidney trouble and backache at that time. I have been free from this trouble ever since. For several years I was subject to severe backaches. I suffered greatly from backache and had much difficulty in passing the kidney secretions. Sometimes the secretions were profuse, then again scant and highly colored. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured at the Louisa Drug Store Co., and they gave me the first relief I had received. After using this remedy I enjoyed better health and entire freedom from kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Five People Killed

Atlantic City, N. J., July 2.—While 3,000 spectators stood too startled to utter a single sound the big dirigible balloon Akron was shattered by the explosion of the gas bag and blown to atoms at 6:38 o'clock this morning a half mile from shore over Absecon Inlet.

Melvin Vaniman, who had built the airship with the idea of flying across the Atlantic ocean; Calvin Vaniman, his youngest brother; Fred Elmer, Walter Guest and George Bourhillon, his crew, were instantly killed. Only the body of Melvin has been recovered.

The dirigible was sailing at a height of 1,000 feet and had been in the air since 6:15 o'clock when the accident occurred. She was a quarter of a mile south of Brigantine Beach, which is across the inlet from this city.

The huge envelope, containing thousands of cubic feet of gas, was rent by the terrific force of the explosion, probably caused by expansion from the sun's rays. It burst near the middle.

A mass of flames hid the ship from view. For a space of possibly ten seconds the half-million-dollar dirigible was invisible, while the air about the spot where she had been hovering seemed to be all flames. The fire dissipated and then the ship outlined against the sunrise was seen to fall like a plummet.

First the understructure, or car, in which were penned the unfortunate men, held in by a mesh work put on after the second trip of the balloon three weeks ago, unable to escape, broke away from the envelope. It upended, the bow turning first in a slow arc. Then it reversed suddenly and plunged downward.

Directly above, twisting in a long spiral, was the gas bag, a smoking mass of rubber and silk, with flames shooting out from a dozen sections as it collapsed. It fluttered a moment and then streaked down after the car.

In the descent, something which appeared to be the body of a man shot out to the left of the wreckage and hit the water before the rest of the descending mass. It was reported that this was the headless body of Calvin Vaniman. At 8:20 o'clock a message was relayed ashore from rescuers that this body had been recovered.

BACK ON A VISIT.

Attorney Vinson is greatly improved in health which is good news to his old friends in Catlettsburg.—Catlettsburg Item Ashland Independent.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The Executive Committee of the Sunday School Association in planning for the annual convention to be held at Louisa, July 10, 11, appointed the superintendent of each Sunday School in Louisa to act with C. B. Ross as chairman on a committee to secure entertainment in the homes of the town for visiting delegates. Each school in the county is entitled to four delegates who shall be appointed by the school. A special request was made that the superintendent be one of the delegates. As soon as the delegates have been appointed send their names to C. B. Ross and state when the delegates will arrive.

The committee also decided that the banner awarded to the county two years ago for promptness in the work can serve others better by being passed on. To this end they have decided that it shall go to the Sunday School, outside of Louisa, that brings the largest number to the convention on the first day, July 10. They are to come in mass, bringing their lunches with them, if they like.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Kentucky School Teachers.

Louisville, Ky., June 25.—The thousand school teachers from all sections of Kentucky assembled here to-day to attend the forty-first annual convention of the Kentucky Educational Association, which will hold sessions for three days.

In honor of the visit of hundreds of rural guests, the Louisville Ad-

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, President of the association, responded to the welcome, and in her annual address reported the membership of the organization had increased from 850 to over 2,500 within the past year.

Every phase of the school question is being discussed, especially the improvement of teaching standards and the development of rural schools.

The following officers were elected:

R. L. McFarland, Owensboro, president.

D. H. Sterns, Grant county, 1st vice president.

Miss Katharine Christian, Lexington, second vice president.

Miss Ella D. Shauny, Washington county, 3rd vice president.

FARM AND ROAD IMPROVEMENT

MANAGEMENT OF CLOVER HAY

Experience Shows It Possesses Higher Feeding Value When Cut and Cured Green as Possible.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.)
Experience as well as exact experiments prove that clover hay possesses a higher feeding value when the crop is cut and cured as green as possible. The majority of farmers allow their clover to get too ripe before they begin the work of cutting and harvesting.

Every practical feeder of dairy cattle and young things knows the value of rowen as food for milk production and growth. What is the matter with making rowen out of the whole of the clover crop?

The clover should be cut as soon as it is in blossom. It cannot be cured as quickly, but it can be cured, and we shall be more sure to get a good second crop.

Much of the feeding value of the clover depends upon how the crop is managed after it is cut; and right here is where we find many practical farmers who fail to agree on how the clover should be handled, although they are all working with one object in view, and that to cure it as quickly as they can and get the crop secured before unfavorable weather delays the work and ruins the feeding value of the hay.

We make a practice of cutting in the forenoon what may be tedded and raked and cocked in the afternoon and allow it to remain in the cocks and cure for two days and open up the third day about nine or ten o'clock in the morning and begin hauling to the mow in the afternoon.

When the clover is handled in this manner it will be cured and the loss of leaves will be reduced to a minimum. Clover that is handled in this manner will retain its delightful aroma. Of course, weather conditions will often upset our most carefully laid plans, and we shall be compelled to cut away from all hard and fast rules and do the best thing possible under the circumstances.

The hay tedder is a necessity if we get our hay into the barn in the best condition, and one day's good sun and two teddings will do more toward curing a crop of clover than two days' exposure to the sun and weather; besides, when the clover is cocked up and left there is but little danger from rainy weather unless it continues for several days, and even then the loss will be much less than it would be if the clover were left as when first cut in the rows as it was raked up.

CARE OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

All Machinery Should be Overhauled as Soon as Season is Over and Repairs Made.

One of the most serious leaks on the farm is in the poor care taken of farm implements when not in use. As soon as the season is over binders and other machinery, no longer needed this year, should be carefully cleaned; the grease and dirt should be removed from the bearings, and these should be carefully oiled and all bright parts greased, to prevent rusting. Preparations should be made for replacing any broken or defective parts.

If time does not permit of all this, make a memorandum to be governed by on some stormy day, and then see that everything is put in readiness for the next harvesting or haying season. Get the repairs and place them on the machines at once. Take care of the plows. Get them under cover. Clean and grease the bright parts, so that, when wanted next spring, they will scour and save the time so many farmers lose in putting their implements into working order.

Importance of Humus.

Remember the importance of having plenty of humus in the soil, and that it is best and most economically supplied by growing clover and making good use of the manure that results from keeping live stock to consume the crops grown upon the farm.

PREVENTING THE SOURING OF MILK IN HOT WEATHER.

During the hot weather of the summer months many farmers have trouble with sour milk. This causes much loss, not only to the farmer who keeps one or more cows for family use, but especially to the dairyman who retails his milk or ships it to a dealer in the city. The dealer usually pays only one-half price for sour milk or refuses to accept it at any price, thus entailing heavy loss to the producer.

Good sweet milk can be produced and delivered in prime conditions to the customer in the hottest summer weather. The writer has for five years shipped milk from the farm to Louisville—a distance of 57 miles—the milk being three hours on the train in transit, and has not had a drop of sour milk during time. The amount of these shipments ranged from 60 to 90 gallons a day, and was on a strict business basis, every gallon being sold at a good margin of profit. During about half of this time the milk was shipped in 8 and 10 gallon cans, the remainder of the time in quart and pint bottles.

Good sweet milk depends on two items, cleanliness and a cold temperature. To secure these the following rules should be observed.

Have the cow's udder clean before milking. A clean damp cloth can be used for this purpose and can be carried in the pocket of the milker. Only a few seconds are required to wipe the udder off immediately before beginning to milk the cow. In our experience this simple expedient has worked wonders.

Be careful not to allow hairs, dust or dirt to fall into the milk. They are laden with germs. Germs cause the milk to sour. The greater the number of germs the quicker the souring will occur. A pail with a small opening will be very helpful in keeping out dust and other dirt.

Use the milk pail for no other purpose than for milking. Some dairymen use it for watering the horses and slopping the hogs, and then wonder why the milk sours.

Cool the milk immediately by running it over a milk cooler, (one of these can be bought for $5 to $7,) or by immersing in cold spring or well water. The animal heat must be removed before placing in cans or bottles for delivery or shipment. If necessary to hold the night's milk for shipment the next morning it should be held at a low temperature. Cold springs or well water in a wooden or metal tank of proper size to hold shipping cans may be used for this purpose. If running spring water is at hand, this will serve admirably. In some cases the milk or cream may be lowered into a cistern and kept cool until time for shipment. If care is exercised, milk can be kept sweet without ice, but a supply of ice is very desirable.

Another important point. Wash all vessels carefully. Examine frequently in the angles to see that no accumulation of yellow slimy casein material collects, as this will certainly cause rapid souring. After washing, scald all vessels with boiling water and place in pure fresh air until ready for use. If exposed to the sun, so much the better, as sunlight is the best germ killer and purifier.

Milk produced in the manner outlined will be of the best quality and will bring the highest market price. Such milk is always in demand and if used for buttermaking it furnishes the raw material from which high quality butter can be produced. If all the butter produced on Kentucky farms were made from milk handled in this way, hundreds of thousands of pounds of poor butter which each year goes into our markets at a very low price would be replaced by a gilt edged article, which would sell at an attractive price, and would add many thousands of dollars to the annual profits of Kentucky farmers.

NITRATES FROM THE AIR.

[Charlotte (N. C.) Chronicle.]

In a 24-hour test conducted under the eye of expert chemists and electricians, free nitrogen has been taken from the atmosphere, wrested by science from its hitherto uninvaded stronghold, and will be made to serve the most practical service in the enriching of the earth so that crops may better grow and flourish and in replacing a product before brought from far-away Chili.

The success of the severe test completed in the plant on the Catawba River recently marked the beginning of a new era in the South, an era in which the highest grade fertilizers will be compounded not with imported products from a distant country, but from the abundance of the atmosphere where the nitrogen has existed for ages, a valuable element that could not be separated from the oxygen with which it is mingled, although it is in the air that is breathed, and constitutes the bulk of the entire atmosphere.

The wresting of this valuable product from its place in nature has been effected by means of the high voltage electric current, a method which in late years has already worked many wonders in the world of chemistry.

The Southern Electro-Chemical Co., of New York, organized some time ago to test the process of Dr. Albert Pauling of Germany, who had previously tested the process in his own country, working in concert with representatives of the Southern Power Co., secured a site and made the necessary arrangement for a 4000-horse-power plant near the Great Falls development of the Southern Power Co.

The result of the tests made were all that had been dreamed of.

The product showed up almost perfect, and everything that had been claimed for it and from the limestone and the atmosphere, brought together the full process, the final product came forth, nitric acid and then nitrate of lime.

The nitric acid and the nitrate of lime emerging from the chain of tanks, retorts and chemical reactions proved clearly and conclusively that the process was a great success. It was a momentous time in the history of the South, for it is believed that the process will enable the owners to supply the necessary ingredients for commercial fertilizers that will place right at the doors of the farmers the product which they require if they are to have good crops, green fields and flourishing grain and cotton. The necessity of paying the freight of several thousand miles to Chili to secure nitrates will soon become unnecessary.

In these days of high cost of living, a medicine that gets a man up out of bed and able to work in a few days is a valuable and welcome remedy. John Heath, Michigan Bar, Cal., had kidney and bladder trouble, was confined to his bed, unable to turn without help. "I commenced using Foley Kidney Pills and can truly say I was relieved at once." His example is worth following. For sale by All dealers.

WILL TEST CATTLE.

The increasing spread of tuberculosis among dairy cattle endangering the public health, by transmitting the disease through the milk and butter, has made necessary a crusade against this disease in bovines. By eliminating diseased cattle from the city dairies, the most potent source of infection to infants can be stamped out, as it is shown that a large percentage of children suffering from tuberculosis are infected with tubercle bacilli of the bovine type and the disease traced directly to the milk of infected dairy cattle. And can it be wondered at, when microscopical examination of the milk in various cities of the United States has disclosed this germ (Tubercle bacillus) in market milk in from two to sixty per cent of the samples examined.

The Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture wishes to encourage all dairymen to keep tuberculin tested cattle and protect the consumer from tuberculosis, and to promote the work, they announce a cooperative test with the State Board of Health of Kentucky, gratis to owners. In order to obtain the services of the Government experts in testing the herds, it will be necessary to comply with the regulations of the Bureau of Animal Industry, which states that animals which react to the test will have to be isolated from the healthy herd, or slaughtered, according to the Government Meat Inspection Laws. The owner, of course, may choose his pleasure in this matter. We trust that all dairymen in the state will avail themselves of this opportunity by making application for the services of the Government experts, stating the number of cows in the herd. The Board of Health will be glad to file all applications for testing on or before July 8, 1912. Further information gladly furnished upon application.

There is no charge for making the test.

Another Sort of Girl

By Martha McCulloch-Williams

Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.

"What shall I do with you? You are simply dreadful!" Lotte ejaculated, looking severely at Basil. He flipped the ash from his cigar with extreme nicety, as he answered: "Don't know—unless you marry me. I heard we were engaged at the post-office yesterday."

"Haggard! I heard that a week ago, at least," Lotte flung back at him, laughing softly.

Basil looked injured. "And you never told me!" he murmured. Lotte shrugged faintly. "I would—only there was no danger," she said. "Even if I wanted you ever so badly, Uncle Joseph and Auntys Beth and Margaret would all protect you. They don't want the King heirs consoling—nor a bit of it. Told me flatly before you came."

"Indeed! Why didn't they warn me?" Basil asked, his tone more than ever injured. Again Lotte laughed. "Oh, they couldn't think of you as in danger," she said. "You see, we know what a day-killer you are—then, too, you have so much money—quite too much to think of wasting yourself upon a country girl."

"You are not a bit like my dream-girl," Basil admitted. "She has wheat-blond hair, eyes of corn-flower blue—and not an angle in her form or in her temper. You are—well—tall and slender?"

"And brown of hair, with green eyes, and all the angles of geometry," Lotte broke in, her eyes gleaming with wickedness. "I'm so glad you told me your ideal, though," she went on. "I'm going to take you to see it—in duplicate, the Dale twins—Emma and Agnes. You'll have to see the whole flock, of course—but they are the chief of our sights—the seven prettiest girls in the county."

"Seven! Good Lord! I can't face a whole platoon. Not without getting more life insurance!" Basil cried, pretending to gasp. "Can't I manage it—the insurance—over the phone? I believe, though, you are stringing me."

"Would I were!" Lotte said mockingly. "Then—well, I shouldn't be in deadly fear of spinsterhood. You see, it is this way—Granny's sons are all dead, and all left girl-children—there are two pairs of sisters and a trio in the bunch. Granny is fat and rich and fussy—worships the girls, and scolds them all the time. Fumes because they don't marry out of hand—and insults outright every man who dares to do them courting. She indulges the bunch every way she can, yet she never lets them feel their souls are their own. Consequently they all have the loveliest manners in the world—even if Emma and Ag were not predestined to captivate you, you'd never escape—the whole lot are so exactly the sort of thing you like."

"I Heard That a Week Ago."

"How do you know?" Basil asked. Lotte answered promptly, "By this token—they are exactly everything I am not."

"Indeed!" Basil said, stepping close to her. She smiled provokingly, whereupon he kissed her.

As she wiped her lips he looked at her reproachfully, saying, "No girl ever did that before—not right to my face."

"You must remember, there are girls and girls, the same as you have been telling me there are men and men," Lotte said over her shoulder, as he ran away.

Basil looked after her, divided between an impulse to follow and kiss her again, and to swear at himself soundly as a fool.

He was five years her elder, and men the world at all angles, moreover was college bred, and a master of the art of flirtation. He had come forthright back to see his father's people—his father who had died, in the year he was born. His mother had married again, and herself been drowned along with her new husband upon the wedding journey. It was thus Basil had come into so much money. His stepfather had made him his heir, no less his mother. He had stayed with her people, quite apart from the Kings. Formal letters had come yearly from his bachelor uncle and two maiden aunts, and been answered as formally. In such fashion he had known of Miss Charlotte

King's existence, but he had never dreamed of her as a factor in his future when a sudden whim moved him to come back to his father's native county.

Now, she was lithely angular; she had freckles and opinions both decided. Moreover she had no reverence for him, for anything masculine, it appeared. Uncle Joseph even was her playfellow, notwithstanding the rest of the world saw him a starch and downright personage. She was certainly the life and soul of things, there in the old homestead. It had been borne in upon him further that she was a coquette of the first water; not a malicious one, but in a merry, sprightly fashion. At first the thought of it had amused him greatly. Later, he had been finding out that she was indeed, when she chose to be, a worker of charms.

They rode to the Dale place at a headlong gallop. The afternoon was heavenly—air like wine went to the head. Basil tried hard to say things as they rode, but Lotte would not listen. She was in her wildest spirits—and managed as soon as they were in the big, dim parlor to get Basil anchored betwixt Emma and Agnes, while she herself sat at merry gossip with Granny, the other five listening in mute admiration.

Basil yearned to listen, too—anything would be better than the pair painfully entertaining him. They were just through reading the latest and truest "best seller," and eager to show the stranger how much they had got out of it.

"I loved the book. It is just like Lotte—the love part, you know," Agnes gurgled at length.

Basil looked politely puzzled. "You'll have to explain," he said. "I have neither read the book nor heard Lotte's love story."

"Why—you know—that is—Amabel just has to marry her—her rich cousin," Emma stammered.

"And he was perfectly horrid, and he ran away with a pedlar—and he turned out to be a college professor in disguise," Agnes added eagerly.

Basil laughed heartily, yet could not help flushing. "I'm her cousin—and horrid enough, I admit—" he began.

At once Emma and Agnes were covered with confusion. "Do excuse us!" they cried in a breath. "We—forgot—and it was so—interesting—seeing people just like those in the book."

"But—she doesn't have to marry me, not unless she chooses!" Basil said apologetically—he really felt quite guilty. Just then there was a check in the gossip—his words carried all the length of the suddenly silent room. Granny caught them—she looked hard at Basil and rumbled at him.

"That's all you know, young man. She'll never get such another chance—trust her not to miss it. Charlotte is the only girl I know with more sense than a goose."

"Lotte—what do you say?" Basil demanded, getting up and striding toward the group at the other end of the room.

Lotte looked up at him, a side-long, birdlike glance, and said demurely: "I've been too well brought up, Cousin Basil, ever to contradict my elders."

HIS COURAGE FAILED HIM

Quannah Parker, Chief of Comanche Indians, Refused to Face Certain Trouble in His Own Home.

Quannah Parker, chief of the Comanche Indians, who died some weeks ago, enjoyed the reputation of being the wittiest man of his race. He was likewise a man of affairs and something of a lobbyist. He had appeared before the committee of Indian affairs regularly for years, and the members of that committee had become intimately acquainted with him.

Two or three years ago Uncle Sam issued a mandate to the effect that the Indians in the future should take unto themselves but one wife. Quannah, appearing before the committee, told its members that many of the men of his tribe had more than one wife. He was admonished to go home and tell them that this condition of affairs could no longer exist and that the surplus wives must be sent home to their parents.

Last session Parker again appeared before the committee, and the following conversation took place between him and a committeeman:

"Did you tell your bucks that they must have but one wife, Parker?"

"Yes, me tell 'um," responded the Indian.

"Did you get rid of the extra wives?"

"Yes, all gone," answered the chief.

"But," urged the committeeman, "I am told that you yourself have six wives."

"Yes, me got six," said Parker.

"Now, this will not do, Parker. You have to get rid of those extra wives. You go home and tell them to leave. Send them to their parents. Tell them to go home."

"You tell 'um," responded the Indian.—Lippincott's.

His Squaw's Necklet

By Isola Forrester

Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.

Vivien reined in her pony at sight of the major. He was visibly disturbed. She could see that from his troubled, uneasy gaze as he watched the stumbling, ungainly figure of old Broken Bow pass down the road that led from the post to the reservation.

"Now what?" called Vivien, anxiously. "Aren't you going to ride this glorious morning—with me?"

He came up to the pony, and stroked its velvet nose gently.

"I cannot, dear, this morning. There's trouble over at the camp. Broken Bow tells me that their medicine man has lost his squaw's necklet."

"Lost what?" laughed Vivien. "How interesting!"

"It may become more so. They are very superstitious, and most abominably obstinate over these things. It is a necklet of elk teeth and eagle claws, a sacred affair that has been handed down from chief to chief for generations, and is supposed to convey miraculous powers to its possessor. The last chief had no son, therefore his daughter kept it, and married the medicine man."

"And he—"

"Thereby acquired part of the gift. Broken Bow has been trying to explain it to me. The whole tribe is up in arms over it. It is believed that the woman's cousin, a young brave named Flying Fox, has stolen it, and will rally the tribe against the peaceful rule of old Broken Bow."

"Aren't they just like children?"

"Hardly. More like frightened animals that rush panic-stricken into unknown danger. This foolish necklet affair may bring on a tribal war, and already the colonel has ordered me out to settle it, with force if need be."

"And you cannot ride?"

"No. Best not venture far yourself."

Vivien laughed back at him over her shoulder as she let the pony go. Danger? There was no danger, she was sure.

Straight away from the post she rode, choosing the river road as her favorite. The post lay in the valley, and she loved the trails that led over the far-lying buttes up to the purple reaches of the foothills. Mile after mile the pony cantered, until the white and yellow houses of the post looked like mere tiny boxes set up on the plain. There was water at a certain turn, Vivien remembered, and she wanted a drink herself. As she reached the pool she slipped from the saddle, giving the pony its chance to drink first. The noise of other hoofs beating up the opposite path startled her, and instinctively she drew her own pony back from the water into the shelter of the trees.

They were both Indians. She knew that as soon as she saw their rough, ungraceful ponies. One was a woman, and she was young. She slipped from her saddle before her pony came to a full stop, let it go free and scrambled up the bank above the drinking pool, while her companion waited.

Vivien watched, holding her breath, one hand over the pony's nose. The squaw bent over the stump of a lightning-blasted pine tree, remained for perhaps a minute and returned, mounting in silence, and both departed as they had come.

"Well, upon my word!" said Vivien with the calm assurance of a Vermont girl, born and bred. "I think you are up to some mischief, my Minnehaha. Stand steady a minute, Belle."

She went up to the pine stump and reached down into its hollow. There were dry leaves, and beneath small rocks, freshly placed there, but under both her hand came in contact with something foreign, something sharp and queer to the touch. She lifted it out, held it up to the light and gave a quick gasp of amazement. Then, returning, she turned about and made for the post.

It was mid-afternoon before she reached the post, too late to stop the detachment that had already started for the reservation to head off the war parties. Signal fires must not be lighted that night on distant hills or by morning there would be open war and bloodshed. When Vivien arrived she threw her bridle to the first soldier she met, and limped toward the colonel's quarters, lame and almost dazed after her race; but clasped in her hand was the necklet.

"Can you ride with me to the reservation?" asked the old fellow, watching the flushed girl face narrowly. "I shall need you."

"I could ride anywhere now," she said.

Fifteen minutes later, on a fresh horse, she rode with the colonel and escort straight out toward the reservation.

"Whoever carries that necklet bears power to sway the whole tribe," the colonel told her. "That brave you saw at the spring must have been Flying Fox himself, but who was the woman? The wife of the medicine man is over thirty-five, and is fat and already old."

"Oh, this girl was young, and almost handsome, colonel," protested Vivien. "And she wore two eagle feathers behind her ear."

"We will find her. Whoever she is, she is the thief."

It was almost sundown when they came in sight of the tepees of the reservation. On a small hillock an arrow's flight from the entrance to the stockade were the major and his men, waiting the going down of the sun as the signal to open fire. Up and down, before the tepees raced the young braves on their war ponies, nearly nude, and brightly painted, yelling wildly. The dull thud of the tom-toms came faintly over the plain.

Not until they reached the main tepee, where Broken Bow himself held court, did the colonel dismount and help Vivian from her horse. The major had galloped to meet them, his face stern and haggard as he realized their peril.

"The truce ends at sundown, colonel," he shouted.

"It is not sundown yet, my boy," said the old man, and he led the way into the tent where Broken Bow waited, with the medicine man and his wife and the old men of the tribe. The chief returned the colonel's salutation gravely.

"It is too late," he said; "I have no power to quell them. Flying Fox has been acclaimed their chief, and rides to light the signal fires to call the other tribes. I have no power now."

A long high wall came from the medicine man, and his wife looked at Vivien, as one woman stares at another she has never seen. Suddenly she gave a shriek and sprang at the girl, tearing at the necklet that rested about her throat. Vivien threw off the clinging hands, and held the necklet high above her head out of reach to the hands of Broken Bow.

"The white squaw holds the balance of power in her hands," said the old chief. "Send messengers to say we have the necklet, and the gift returns to our side, not Flying Fox's."

Suddenly Vivien heard a low gasp behind her, and turned to find the girl who had hidden the necklet at the spring. She caught her wrist, and held fast, as she called to the major what she knew of her.

"It is Evening Star," said Broken Bow, sternly, "my own daughter. She had stolen the necklet for him, to give him victory. What shall her punishment be at the hands of the great white father?" He looked at the old colonel, and the colonel looked at Vivien, standing beside the major. And Vivien, reading the look in the Indian girl's eyes, gave sentence.

"Let her be banished with Flying Fox to the North country."

"Thou hast said," replied Broken Bow, but the girl smiled back at Vivien as they led her forth to her exile, and understood.

FLED FROM CONGO CANNIBALS

Superintendent of Rubber Plantation Saw a Cauldron He Feared Might Be for Him.

It is not every day that a man arrives in this town who has looked into a boiling cauldron which cannibals held in preparation for him. But such a man came here the other day from Antwerp on the Red Star liner Vanderland. He was Emile Van Baelen, a Belgian, who was in charge of a rubber plantation in the Congo and had the small task of bossing ten thousand black men.

Mr. Van Baelen knew all about the rubber business, but he wanted to learn something of the mineral treasures of the interior of the D. Congo. So he ventured one day with three servants on an expedition that led two hundred miles from his camp. He found gold and other rich deposits in the interior, but as he was about to return to camp he was surrounded by a hundred dusky Dongoleses, big savages, who consider human flesh a food delicacy.

The servants fled and were captured. Mr. Van Baelen stood his ground, and as the savages approached him he drew his revolver and dropped a couple of them. The others were held at bay. Strategy becoming his only hope now, he said, he raised his hands, and addressing them in their own tongue declared that he was a white god. The blacks took him at his word and instantly saluted him.

He did many things mysterious to the tribe, such as lighting a match and rolling a great stone by a lever, and suddenly he found himself their adored guest. He was invited to sleep in the hut of the king of the tribe, and a feast was prepared for him. Fearing that he might have to sample a part of one of his missing servants, he escaped in the night and got back to his camp. He is on his way to Mexico to raise coffee.

Impromptu Speeches and Conferences.

WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

The West Virginia delegation at the Chicago convention split up badly. Gov. Glasscock wanted everything in sight. Mr. Hubbard of Wheeling wanted the wee governor to ride up so there it was. They came back to their native domain with feelings of revenge rankling in their breasts, which will develop more plainly as the election grows nearer.

Col. T. T. McDougal was beaten for state senator by a large majority. This means that the Republican counties of Mingo and McDowell have no respect for the Republicans of this county. Now we have a solution to offer to our Republican brethren. It is this. Help the Democrats in the election this fall and they will see to it that Wayne county gets an absolute divorce from these counties in the Black Belt.

Last Thursday marked the fortieth anniversary of the admission of West Virginia as a sovereign commonwealth into the union of states. The state enters upon the fiftieth year of its statehood as a marvel of growth and the accomplishment of its own salvation and progress, unexcelled by any other state. Next year there will be celebrated in Wheeling the attainment of the fiftieth birthday of the state, under the direction and supervision of the semi-centennial commission, and the preparations making for that Golden Jubilee assures a fitting and impressive commemoration of that important event.

The forty second annual session of the State Educational Association was held at Wheeling, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Association was well attended, the enrollment being more than eight hundred, made up of members of the faculty of the University, high school principals, city superintendents, county superintendents, and teachers in the high graded and elementary schools of the state.

The program rendered was very interesting and all were well pleased with the meeting. A number of educators from other states participated in the exercises.

The forty third session will be held at Parkersburg.

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected:

Mrs. Mary McGuigan, of Charleston, Pres.
Supt. W. M. Foulk, of Huntington, Vice Pres.
Supt. C. R. Murray, of Williamson, Sec.
Mr. J. F. Marsh, Sec. of the Board of Regents, Treas.
Wayne county was represented but won no prizes. Last year this county won first and second.

The department of free school has issued the county teachers' institute schedule for the current year. The following plans, as to dates and instructors, have been provided for Wayne and adjoining counties:

Wayne, Wayne, July 22. Instructors, Joseph Rosier, Fairmont; Miss Virginia C. Johns; Mrs. Jennie Duncan, Kenova, Music.

Cabell, Huntington, August 19. Instructor, Dr. R. A. Armstrong, Morgantown; Professor E. Dieffenbach, Huntington.

Mingo, Williamson, August 26. Instructors; J. D. Garrison, Sistersville; Miss Mary B. Fontaine, Charleston; Mrs. Mary M. Bryan, Pt. Pleasant, music.

Logan, Logan, September 2. Instructors, L. W. Burns, Montgomery; L. J. Hanifan, Charleston.

The Twelve Pole Valley Baptist Sunday School Convention was to have been held with the Wayne Baptist Sunday School on Wednesday and Thursday before the Fourth Sunday in July. The Wayne County Teachers' Institute will be in session here on that date and the officers of the convention have decided to hold it on Wednesday and Thursday before Third Sunday in July which will be one week earlier. A program for the convention will be published in the next issue of the News.

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 28.—Drury C. Badgley, a wealthy farmer, residing at Pleasant Hill, near here, was attacked today by a swarm of bees, which settled in his hair and beard and stung him to death before medical aid could reach him.

IN MEMORY.

In loving remembrance of our dear sister, Mrs. Carrie Curpitt was born and raised in Lawrence county, Ky., and about twelve years ago with her family moved to Montana, W. Va., where her husband had employment. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hughes, and besides her husband and seven children she leaves a father, mother, one brother and two sisters to mourn our loss, but our loss is heaven's gain and we must submit to God's will. We believe her shouts and songs were heard in the angel host above in her last hours on earth. She was a devoted wife and loving mother. She will sleep but not forever.

There will be a glorious dawn, We shall meet to part no never, On the resurrection morn.

She shall sleep but not forever in the silent grave. How sweet are the welcome words, "well done, thou good and faithful servant enter into the joy of thy Lord. Our prayers are that we all may be faithful and meet her on that beautiful shore. Her loving sisters,

M. E. H. AND M. K.

OBITUARY.

It is not the object of this article to perpetuate the deep sense of grief we feel for the death of our friend and kinsman, Garfield Moore, but to mention some of his most prominent traits of character that will forever make his place in our midst unfilled and enshrine in our hearts forever his name and deeds of loving service.

We would not offer an unmerited tribute to his memory; but if there is anything of worth to be achieved through those excellent, many qualities of character that constituted him the man that he was, then we would offer this brief memoir as an inspiration to others who would in like manner give to the world, through their lives, a blessing of unmeasured value.

From boyhood Garfield developed an immovable attachment to the principles of truth and right while loyalty to his friends was a marked feature in all his public and private life. To his friends and to the needy and suffering about him his name was the synonym of help and sympathy.

He was industrious, resolute and enterprising to a commendable degree. His life was an open book that all were benefitted to read—a book whose pages reflected naught but the spirit of true manliness.

As a neighbor he was of the purest type, generous and willing to share with those about him alike their joys and sorrows. As a parent he was kind and devoted and was ever judiciously guarding the interests of his children and striving by example as well as by precept to lead them to pure and useful lives.

As a citizen he was an example of moral rectitude and an enemy to crime and lawlessness.

As a friend he knew no obstacle great enough to stay his helping hand no night so dark that he could not find the pathway to your door to relieve your distress, or if possible, to meet and satisfy your needs.

As a christian, he testified almost to his last moment to a hope that threw open a way to a grander world than this.

His sufferings were meekly borne. He met death bravely, fearlessly and we can feel no doubt that this freed spirit, now full panoplied with immortal life is sharing a full realization of his treasured hope.

He died "where manhoods morning touches noon" and where his presence and service were most felt and needed.

Death so often drops the curtain on the scene has impressed the soul with its highest and best effect; but we submit to the inevitable. God knows best, and if we should not understand this mysterious working of his providence in this instance of bereavement so deep and painful, still let us hope that beyond the sunset of time, where eternities morning forever breaks upon the enrapturing scenes of his Heavenly home, we shall see him again.

Nine Hundred Applications.

It is said that 900 applications for pensions under the new State law granting ex-Confederates or their widows pensions have been filed with the Commissioner at Frankfort. At $120 each it will require $108,000 to pay these and it is safe to say that at least several hundred more claims will be filed later.

KENTUCKY NEIGHBORS.

Enim Elam has resigned as editor of the Hazel Green Herald and Spencer Cooper is back on the job.

J. D. Ward has been appointed postmaster at Lower Greasy, and will take charge of the office, the first of July.

Report states that J. T. Moore and John Gorman of Hazard, Ky., have purchased and will develop coal land near Hazard, intending to install a $75,000 plant.

Eddie George, the young man who was so badly burned at Van Lear, Ky., recently and brought to the King's Daughters' hospital for treatment was able to be taken to his home at East Point, Ky., yesterday. His many friends throughout the Big Sandy section will be glad to know that he is thus far on the road to recovery.—Ashland Independent.

The first regular passenger and freight service on the L. & E. extension of the L. & N. from Jackson to Hazard, a distance of forty-two miles, was inaugurated on June 25. The first train left Hazard in the morning, connecting at Jackson with Lexington and Louisville. For the present only one freight and one passenger will be run each day.

Dr. G. V. Daniel is in possession of a block which was cut from an old beech tree which stands on his farm near Flat Gap, which bears the inscription, "John Fox, April 7 1777" and just below this another engraving "300 yds." and just below this a hand is cut into the wood which is supposed to be pointing in the direction of the famous lead mine that is supposed to be located in that section.

The Argelite neighborhood, just back of Russell, seems to have suffered more than an ordinary share of tragedies. Last spring, not more than four months ago, a child was burned to death, and it has been only a short time since Robert Riley was found shot to death, and last Sunday Ollie Jenkins was drowned. Last Monday morning George Hoop accidentally shot his wife in the leg, which resulted in that member having to be amputated half way between the knee and the ankle.

While playing on one of Taylor Day's lots near the residence of James Lacy yesterday, Simon Bohannon and Archie Brooks dug up twenty musket balls about an ounce each in weight. Parts of papers still adhering to them showed that they had been cartridges, but the earth had destroyed the paper cup holding each, together with the powder. They were probably buried there during the civil war, and probably were ammunition for the Minnie rifle or musket.—Hazel Green Herald.

A bunch of fellows broke into the Russell jail Friday and took therefrom three prisoners, two colored men and a white woman, and led them to a spot out of the town and then proceeded to give each one a healthy beating. The two were arrested the latter part of the week for loitering and were confined in the town jail.

The men about town got wind of the affair and investigated. They found out enough to get them good and mad. They just had to do something to let loose their ire so they administered the rod.

The birth of twin girls to R. J. McLin and wife has heretofore been noted in these columns, but Our Man About Town a few days since had his attention called to the fact that Robert McLin's father was a twin. Bob has twin brothers, he married a twin and is himself the father of twin girls. Mrs. McLin also told him that she had two great aunts who were twins, and taken together it is quite a coincidence. By the way the twins of Mr. McLin and wife while alike in feature are slightly different in weight, one being 14 1-4 pounds and the other 10 pounds.—Hazel Green Herald.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., June 27.—Mae Bishop, aged 13, who lived with George Anderson, Sr., on the levee pike two days ago, supposedly with the intention of being married. Nothing was heard of the child until about noon today, when she appeared at the Anderson home, unaccompanied. It is said that she made some kind of a confession to Mrs. Anderson, saying that she would rather be dead than living. With that she drank carbolic acid and died a short time later without regaining consciousness. The girl was an attractive child. Officers are searching for the man who is accused of being the cause of the trouble, but he has disappeared. The girl had lived with the Andersons for about seven years.

Hazard, Ky. The Board of Education of Perry county in session to-day contracted for 650 new desks, fifty school charts and five new school buildings. The superintendent of the county schools said: "To-day has been a record breaker of all previous years in the way of improvements, buildings and planning for the work of the coming year. Each member of the board stands firmly for compulsory attendance, believing this the one way of making Perry county take her place among the counties along educational lines."

There are sixty-two school buildings in as many districts. Of these several have been condemned and will be replaced as soon as possible. The new buildings will cost an average of $600 each. The average enrollment for last year was 58 per cent. of the scholastic population, which is 4,200. The average attendance was only 38 per cent. The parents are in a measure aroused on the subject and it is thought that the average attendance this year will be much better.
